

The Art and Science of Donor Development (ASDD)

A Virtual and Distance Learning Experience

This five-part workshop is ideal for seasoned professionals and newer development staff alike as a powerful means of connecting to the heart of philanthropy. During five 2.5-hour sessions, participants will join an interactive web platform where they can explore the groundbreaking concepts in a facilitator-led, virtual classroom. Discover a donor-centered process for facilitating engagement that leads to commitment to targeted organizational priorities through group discussions, video case studies, pre-work assignments, and opportunities for post-workshop action planning.

Advancement Resources' training content is derived from proprietary research and intense, in-depth interviews and observations among top development professionals, academic and medical leaders, and major donors.

Structure

Classroom Engagements

Participants will attend five 2.5-hour sessions in a real-time virtual classroom. This experience features networking opportunities, application exercises, and interactive facilitator support.

Sessions are scheduled for each individual workshop offering, with five sessions taking place over a one-week period. Participants in each cohort should be prepared to attend all sessions, as this is not a webinar, and interactivity is essential to the success of the experience.

Pre- and Post-Work Assignments

Prior to the workshop, participants will be asked to complete a pre-work assignment. Additionally, participants have the opportunity to create and complete additional application exercises.

Technical Requirements

Participants should be prepared to use an individual computer, speakers, a microphone, and a consistent Wi-Fi connection.

A detailed welcome guide will be sent to all participants prior to the first session.
